

Purdue Agricultural Centers (PACs)

Northeast Purdue Agricultural Center (NEPAC) is one of 8 Purdue Agricultural Centers across Indiana. Their purpose is to provide hands on research opportunities for specialists on campus to discover new information in the community so local food and fiber production can be improved and environmental quality maintained and improved.

Northeast Purdue Agricultural Center (NEPAC)

NEPAC is located at 4821 E. 400 S., Columbia City, Whitley County. From State Road 9 about 3 miles south of Columbia City or 2 miles north of St. Rd. 14, take County Road 400 South to the east. NEPAC is 4 miles east on the North side of the road. NEPAC has three parcels totaling about 440 acres, including 360 tillable acres in Whitley County. Stephen Boyer is superintendent.
